

Comments 2

The comments below are user submitted reports by third parties and are not endorsed by Robokiller

This fake debt collector is trying to collect on non-existent debts. The debt validation letter they send you is from a fake domain. The debt collector service (Ackerman Rosenfield) is not credentialed. They say they are collecting a debt from anywhere between the years 2015 and 2017 from Personal Cash USA (also a bogus website), Cashnet USA, Advance America, or Allied lending. Their similar story is that "you only paid $150 of a $600-$700 debt, and now it has ballooned to an extravagant amount, $4,429." However, if you pay right then, they will only collect the base amount and keep it from being recorded with the credit bureaus. I called the supposed lender. In my case, they said Advance America, a company I've never had an account with. Advance America verified they were aware that this scam was happening, that I never had an account with them, and they advised me to ignore it. ARS is the same company calling from 1-866-372-4896 and 1-866-293-6078.

May 22, 2024

Scam

⌘